

Studo expands to Switzerland

Studo app now also supports students and universities in Switzerland

Graz/February 2023. The Graz-based educational technology company Studo launched its first university cooperation in Switzerland in February 2023. Together with the PH Institute NMS Bern, the Studo App was rolled out.

The PH NMS Bern is a newly founded university for the education of teachers. With the launch of the new PH Institute, the Studo App is also released: The students and staff of the NMS Bern can now use the Studo App to organise their everyday study life. In addition, they will receive the Digital Student Card, a digital ID card in the design of the PH NMS Bern.

After Austria, Germany and Slovenia, Studo is now taking its first steps in Switzerland with this cooperation.

About Studo:

Studo is an educational technology company based in Graz (AT), Cologne (DE) and Maribor (SI), and is engaged in digitization solutions for students and universities. Since 2016 Studo offers an organization app for students. The app is currently used by over 350,000 active users in Germany and Austria, most of whom are students, but also university employees. 40 universities in Germany, Austria, Slovenia and Switzerland are already cooperation partners of Studo. The app organizes courses, timetables and mails and offers with the integrated chat and news feed a platform for students at the respective universities.
